The Salon Piano Series is a non-profit founded by Tim and Renée Farley to continue the tradition of intimate concerts at Farley's House of Pianos. Farley's first became known as a salon concert setting in the late 1970s when touring artists began to visit the showroom.

An incredible array of talented pianists have performed here, including Daniel del Pino, Paul Badura-Skoda, Alessio Bax, and Valentina Lisitsa, as well as the Varshavski-Shapiro Piano Duo. Dick Hyman, Dave McKenna and Eddie Higgins are among the jazz pianists who have appeared.

The Series offers audiences the chance to hear upcoming and well-known artists in an intensely intimate setting, much as audiences heard music throughout the 18th and 19th centuries. The setting enhances collaboration between performer and audience. An artist's reception follows each concert and some performances include pre-concert lectures.

We invite you to make a donation and become a patron of these concerts. Salon Piano Series is recognized by the IRS as a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, and is supported by generous donations from individuals and businesses. Your contribution today is tax deductible to the extent allowed by law. Donors receive preferential seating, recognition in the concert program, and invitations to special donor events. Thank you for whatever part you play in our salon concerts!
